"Through the Looking Glass"

"Through the Looking Glass"...

Almost every day, you look into a mirror, or see your reflection in some way. The face that gazes back at you is familiar, and yet when you compare it with an old photograph, the two images seem only remotely connected. Your face has changed as you grew older, and so have your plans, ideas, and activities. Only through a looking glass revealing a retinue of memories could you so vividly recall those by-gone days of joy and sorrow. The Carillon is offering you the mirror; what you see there will depend on you.

It would seem that a man with the name Raleigh Rutherford Biggerstaff would be "a true and perfect gentle knight" of Chaucer, or a bosom cohort of Shakespear, or a writer about red roses like Robert Burns. But he is not. He is something even greater . . . an English teacher.

Into us, as an otherwise chaotic class of sophomores, he instilled a sense of honor and chivalry. As we rose to be juniors, he guided the budding literary geniuses toward publication in the bloom of their work. And to seniors, he pointed out that true love is not really like a "red, red rose" because it, unlike a flower, never withers and dies.

"It's a lifetime proposition, this business of education." an earnest 'Mr. Big' has often told us. He has devoted his life to molding the minds and spirits of others, proving each day how important he thinks the task really is.

With sincere good wishes to Dennis,
Mr. Big

Because he has carried out his job so well, each student that he taught has taken a little something extra with him when he went. Under 'Mr. Big's' tutorage, a pupil received more than a fundamental knowledge of grammar and a basic appreciation of literature.

It would be hard to put a label on this intangible "shove in the right direction" that 'Mr. Gig' gave us, but no matter what we call it, we, the class of 1962, thank him for so invaluable a gift.

Mr. Bob Wilkes has taught many of us that similar triangles have equal angles or that (x+y) (x-y) -x-xy+y. He has also helped many of us learn to drive, no easy task considering the risks. Through all our associations with him, we have felt a current of warm personal interest, an inexhaustible well of patience, and the offer of a helping hand if we needed it.

"People, you've got to get on the ball" he'd say to us, and we knew he meant it. He wanted us to work when it was time to work, and he insisted that we put forth our very best.

But he believed in enjoying yourself too, and never failed to wish us a pleasant vacation before a school holiday. Whenever he did, we always had the feeling that he really meant it.

Mrs. Wilkes has contributed much both academically and morally to our career at J. M. Morehead High School. When we leave, we shall take with us the memory of his fine teaching ability and his radiant personality. We, the class of 1962, thank him for giving us that memory.

"Where do you come from?" said the Red Queen. "And where are you going? Look up, speak nicely, and don't twiddle your fingers all the time."

Administration

As we look into our mirror we see the first of many images that reflect strength of character, knowledge in application, and understanding of human nature. To be a principal, teacher, or adviser is never an easy task, and in the years that stretch ahead, we will recall how adroitly the members of our faculty handled the job. May their reflection ever shine clearly and truly as we glance backward to view an example before going forward in our own right.

Mr. and Mrs. John Motley Morehead

Nobleness of heart,
Nobleness of mind,
These we find in truth;
And in truth,
We find unselfishness.

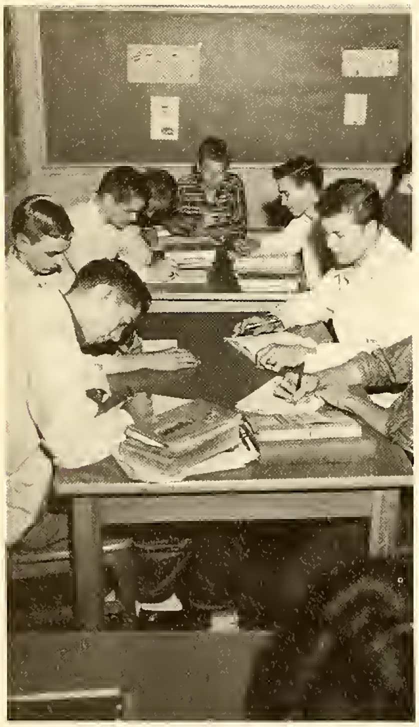
David Flinchum reports to the class on the progress of the D. E. program. "Money is scarce . . . everywhere."



D. E. students concentrate on textbooks in order to learn methods of meeting the public while on the job.

Something must be interesting. Annette Saunders, Shirley Frith, Daisy Hodges, and Barbara McGuire seem to think it's the advantages of the D. E. program.

Distributive Education provides an opportunity for students to continue scholastic progress while holding down a job in the community. Students learn how to meet the public as well as how to serve them. MR. RALEIGH BIGGERSTAFF
Head of the English Department

How can he smile with all those horrible relative pronouns on the board! But "Mr. Big" certainly is grinning.

English is one area of study that all students are required to enter every year that they are in school. But it is one of the few things that, although compulsory, is no less a joy for being so. The capable teachers in our English department have done, and are doing, a wonderful job in making the study of our own language both interesting and rewarding.

MISS ELIZABETH DIXON
Head of the Home Economics Department

Brenda Smith adds the finishing touches to a flower arrangement, proving that girls can be useful as well as ornamental.

The Home Economics Department specializes in turning out one main product — a happy, well-rounded girl who will be able to take her place with ease as wife, mother, and citizen in the future. Many ingredients go into the making of such a girl, and among them are social graces, an understanding of children, and pride in herself and her country.

Mary Ann Shropshire and Miss Dixon confer about a bulletin board. Miss Dixon must approve — or else why the big smile?

See, she sews so swiftly, seldom stopping since such speed seems simple . . . if you take Home Economics that is. Reba Lumpkins does.

baked a cake . . . in the Home Economics Department of course!

In the hustle and bustle of our modern world, it is rare to find a girl not interested in a career. However, we have found some industrious females who intend to combine housekeeping and scientific research. We feared that they might get radio-active particles in baby's milk, but on discovering the training they receive in the culinary arts here at Morehead, our uneasiness was allayed.

"You must have been a beautiful baby" — theme song for the Home Economics III class studying childcare.

Libby likes to cook — attention boys — and collecting recipes is the first step.

Faith Hankins, Marie Wall, Terri Martin, and Ann Soyers prepare to bake a cake — or at least that's what they called it.

Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the tidest of them all? Becky Blackburn and Betty Hodges!

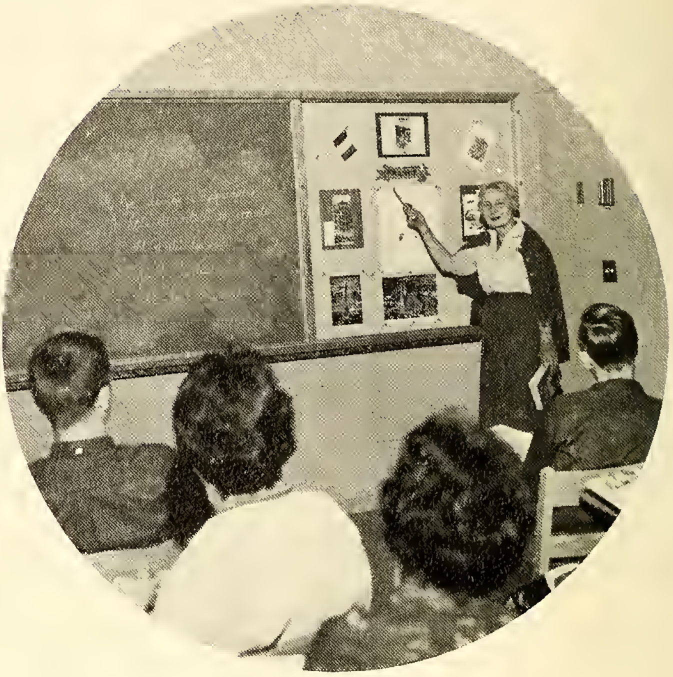
Kenny Meeks employs deadly concentration as he works with a lathe. Careful Kenny!

MISS ELLEN FRENCH

Ancient Rome comes alive in the study of Latin

Julius Caesar and Miss French rule over the Latin department. Each year the students bridge the Rhine with the old warrior and learn to be boni pueri et puellae. French students learn to keep house in the language of the bourgeois while Napoleon keeps a watchful eye on the proceedings.



Just thinking of Paris makes Miss French beam.

Miss French and the Latin class learn that "Britainia est insula."

If you don't learn any Spanish, you can always join the glee club . . . for you also learn to sing . . . in Spanish of course!

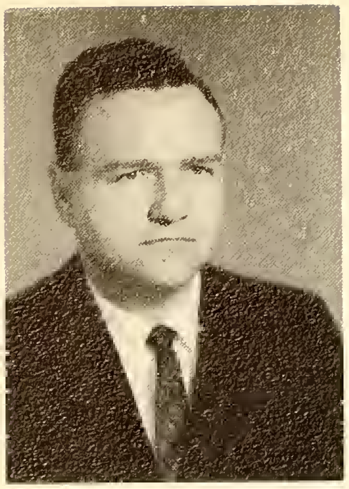
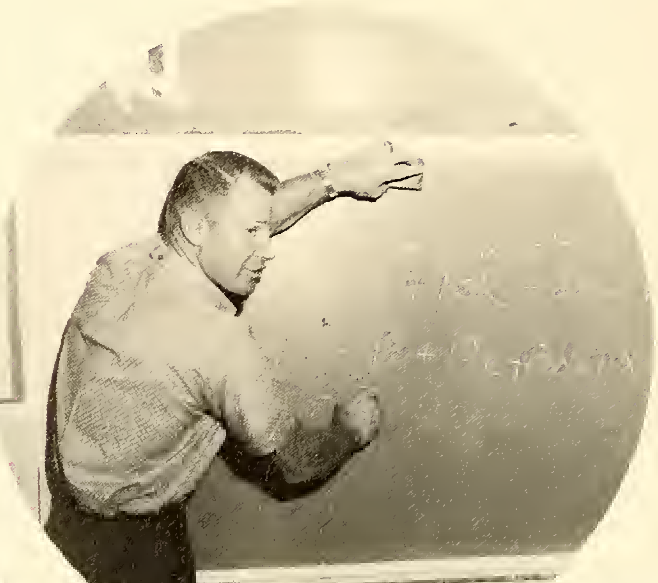
Polyhedral angles, Slide rules, equations,



MR. CARROLL RABON
Head of the Math Department

Denni, Best of luck always. I have enjoyed having you in class this year.
Rabon

When Pythagorus started playing around with triangles, and somebody thought up algebra, and the ancient Egyptians began measuring, our troubles were born. But the mathematical wizzards in our classes enjoyed themselves and we learned to add 2 and 2. Bring on the isosocles triangles and the trig tables and the polyhedral angles!



You put a plus here and a minus here and you've got a . . . yes, what have you got Mr. Price?

He's not a square, not a cube, but a triangle. The question is, Mr. Wilkes, are you congruent?

You'll have a test in five minutes! The college algebra class puzzles over today's equations.

MR. MOTT PRICE

MR. BOB WILKES

and erasers dominate the Math Department.

How to prove a theorem — for Mr. Wilkes — by Steve Holmes Algebra is fun . . . Diana Banks and Ronnie Slaughter explain to the rest of the class.

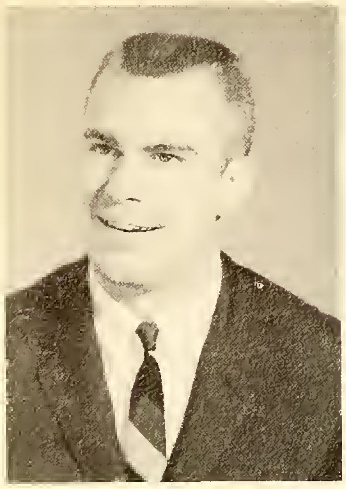
"Now do you understand John?" "Well Sir, . . . not quite." Mr. Rabon explains a solid geometry model to John Walker.

If I didn't see it, I wouldn't believe it! Ray Blackwell does his algebra homework.

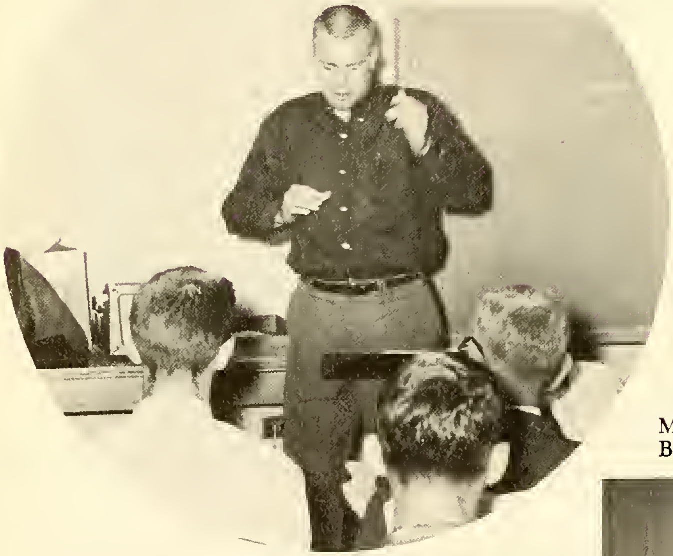


MR. DUANE BEST
Glee Club Director

"Sweeter than music are you"

Put away your chewing gum — here comes Mr. Best. Say "Ah" and sing C scale. If you were lucky you sang a solo, and if you couldn't sing at all, you tried hard or got kicked out. You went on some trips and won some awards, and had your robe cleaned and your tie pressed. With practice you learned to keep your balance on the risers and how to sing together, joyfull, freely, exuberantly . . . in the glee club.

Oh those night rehearsals!

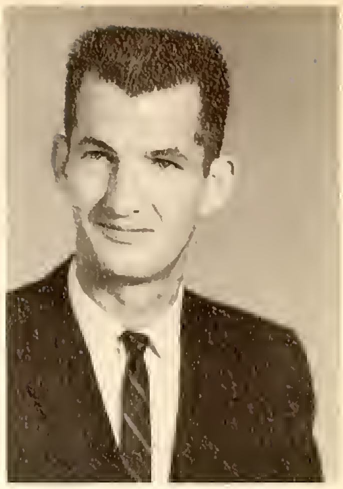


Is he doing the twist? No — he's directing the glee club.

Mr. Best points out some tricky notes to glee club accompanist Diana Banks.

Our beloved band and glee club.

Remember that game when it poured rain? the time we were absolutely massacred? those wild trips on the band bus? Mr. Fleming yelling bloody murder? All those demerits? The spring concert? that day you forgot your black socks? Of course you remember, for how could you forget those wonderful years that you played in the John Motley Morehead Band.



MR. ROBERT FLEMING
Director of the Band

Hurry up and get those instruments out or you'll get demerits!

What shall we play next week? Mr. Fleming and his assistants look over some new music.

The most beautiful sound in the world — Mr. Fleming directing our band.

MRS. SARAH FERGUSON
Head of the History Department

This year, as every year, time immemorial, U. S. History classes studied the constitution and learned the prologue. Geography students memorized maps and drew topography sketches. The Greeks and the Trojans fought another war, and World History marched on.

"The equator is not up here!" Mr. Price to World History class.

You'd never guess that Mr. Honeycutt taught geography, now would you?

He also teaches U. S. History, Mr. Honeycutt, that is.

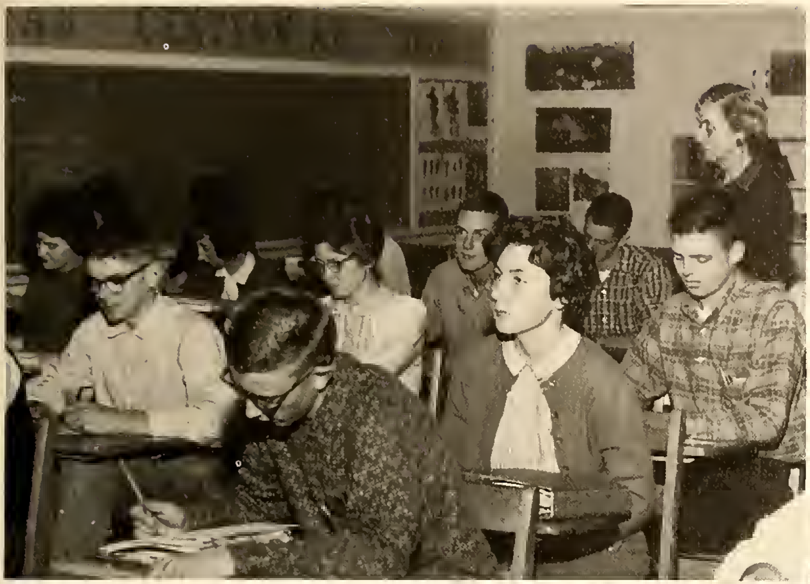
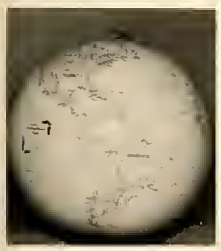
history book with social studies ever changing.

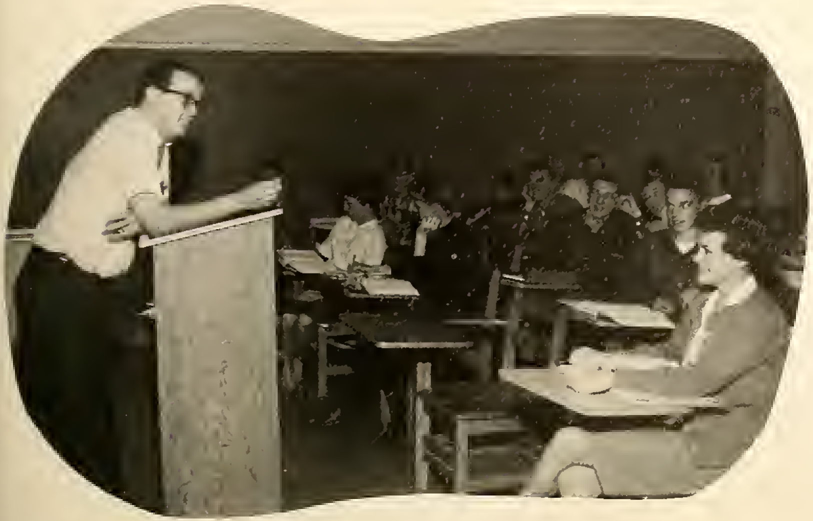
Current events and newspaper clippings, a trip to court and an autobiography, vocabulary quizzes and index card reports; these are the memories of our history classes. While we learn about the patterns of the past, the present is forming those of the future. Maybe by seeing the mistakes of Caesar, Napoleon, and Eisenhower, we will learn to manage our affairs.



Mrs. Ferguson gives a Sociology test. Why is Carl Newlin laughing?

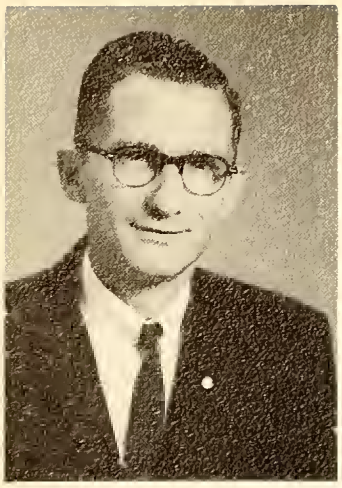


Mr. Allen's bulletin board strikes a poignant note in a world torn by cold wars.



Mr. Allen demonstrates a filibuster to his U. S. History class.

Who knows what creative genius



MR. VOIGT MORGAN
Head of the Science Department

Stare deep into the flame or the Bunsen burner. In it glow the memories of bygone years when men labored by night over test tubes and toiled by day with formulas and equations. These were the men of science; these men who wondered, searched, and found. Yet all the problems were never solved, nor all the questions answered. That is why young minds are being trained to think. Our science department preserves this ideal.

Best wishes and luck to you in the future. Use what you have and you will succeed!
V. F. Morgan

"Ignore it, and maybe it'll go away." Mr. Morgan tells students . . . after assigning a six weeks test in chemistry.

Oh please, anything but potassium cynanide! Hortense McGehee, chemistry lab assistant, fiendishly mixes up an unknown.

"And here, class, we have an itsy, bitsy, iggly, squiggly amoeba." Mr. Fulcher in Biology.

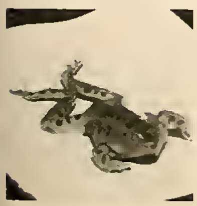
"Yeow" What's that rattlesnake doing in this drawer?" Lab assistant Nancy Scales and Biology teacher Hugh Citty make a startling discovery.

Chemistry students splatter unhappily away in the lab and try hard not to blow up anything.

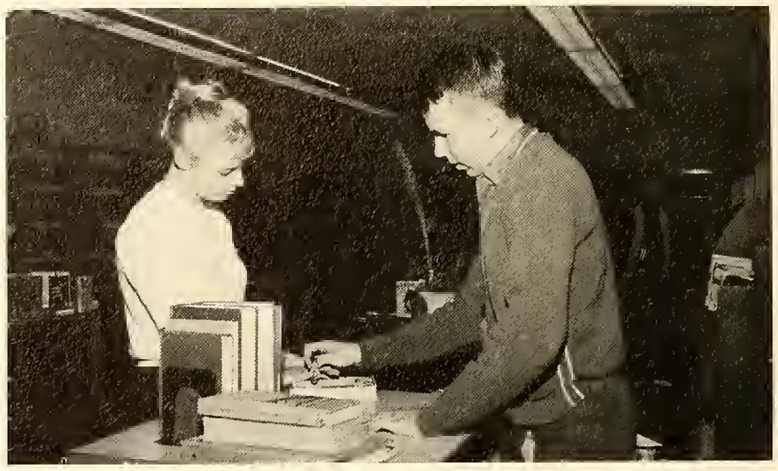
Ugh!!! Any sensible girl's reaction to an earthworm. Sandra Johnson does not think too much of Tommy Davis's little friend either.



"Isn't this cute? It's a slide rule." Mr. Rabon to physics class.

Quiet please - in the Library!

MISS ELAINE HOLT
Librarian



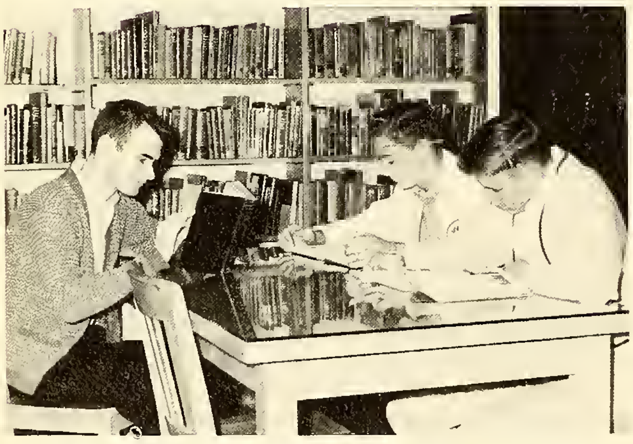
"Now bring it back on time!" cautions a library assistant to one of the many students who enjoys the privilege of checking out books.

. . . books, books,

and more

books . . .

The library of J. M. Morehead High School is centrally located in the main building, and sooner or later everyone finds his way there. Whether it is to do research for a history report, find a 500 page novel for English, or merely to do some algebra homework, students find the library a pleasant and profitable place to be.



What's this? Don't tell me they're studying?

Busy as usual, Miss Holt?

Somebody likes to read. Could it be . . .?

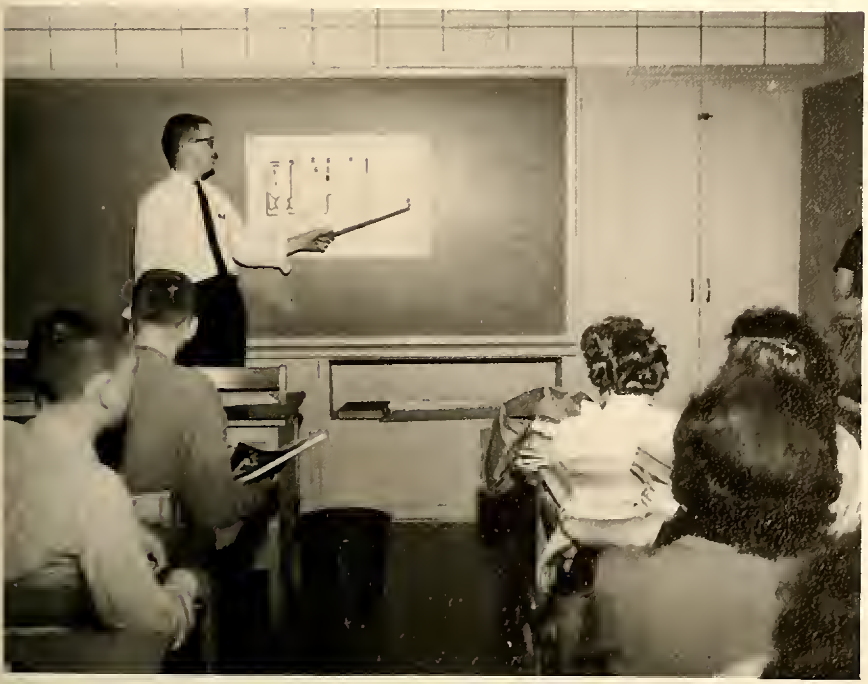
Driver Training is essential!

MR. WILLIAM FULCHER

MR. BOB WILKES

"So that's why it won't run on peanut butter," concludes Mr. Wilkes as he points out the parts of an engine to Driver Education Students.

Never, never take the cap off the radiator!



"And here, class, we have a distributor . . . which distributes," lectures the one and only Mr. Fulcher.

In the present day and age, a teenager is just nothing but a square unless he knows something about that "rod on wheels." A basic understanding of how a car operates, a fundamental skill in good driving techniques, and a general knowledge of national auto statistics go a long way in helping to make our highways safer. Not only do the driver training students acquire a knowledge of practical things . . . like changing tires . . . but they also share in the fun of learning to drive together. This part of the course is not without excitement. Besides the thrill of being under the wheel, there is the knowledge that one is learning to be a safe driver.

DEE

"Tweedledum and Tweedledee
Agreed to have a battle;
For Tweedledum said Tweedledee
Had spoiled his nice new rattle."

Athletics

In our reflections, we often recall the memory of a cheerleader spelling out "MOREHEAD." Actually, those letters were only symbols representing what our athletics department stood for. Give us an "A" for attitude . . . to meet with triumph or disaster in the same way; a "T" for training . . . the long grueling job of getting in shape; an "H" for happiness . . . the lasting friendships made; an "L" for learning . . . the construction of physical and moral strength; an "E" for effort . . . that old get-up-and-go; a "T" for team . . . a co-operative spirit; an "I" for idealism . . . to uphold the rules of the game; a "C" for courage . . . in the face of certain defeat; an "S" for support . . . having everyone behind "our boys." Yes, we have spelled out "ATHLETICS" for the 1961-62 season, and all the years to come.

Hurrah for

"Out of the way, kid!" Senior privileges mean woe for the Sophomores in the lunch line — where Ed Hunt and Alice Hunter Sugg are concerned anyway.

"The things that crazy editor makes me do!" Bill Rigney spends the day working on the annual . . . another senior responsibility.

Twist again — Seniors like to dance. Brenda Collins Bill Rigney, Gail Washburn, and Jerry Odell.

What a committee . . . and Mr. Morgan too. We can't wait to see what the senior play is like THIS YEAR.

Seniors are fun-loving!

the Seniors!

Seniors are school spirited! At least Jimmy Fair, Wallace Martin, William Tate, and Nancy Williams sit on the front row at football games.

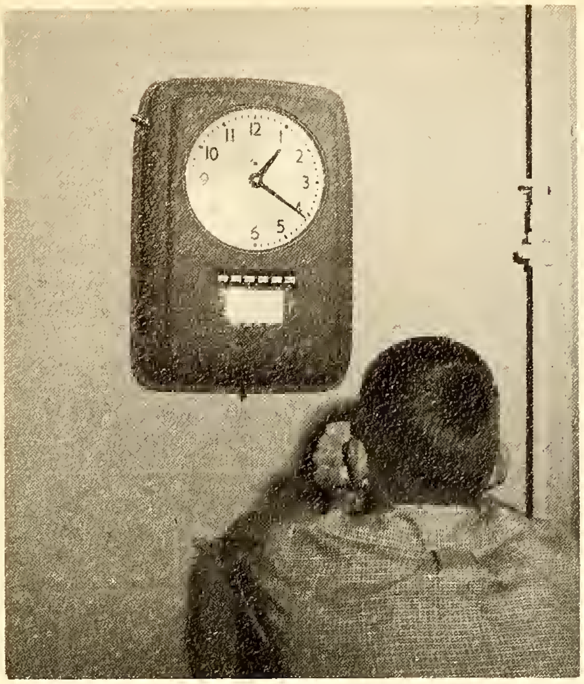
Wishful thinking perhaps . . . but Karen Johnson and Jimmy Brooks measure for those all important senior status symbols — a cap and gown.

"And just remember, she's mine!" Seniors, Frank Barron and Stuart Shough, confer in the hall after lunch.

We're rich!, or are we?! Senior class officers Lucy Grogan, Jan Thomas, and Alice Hunter Sugg struggle over money from the candy sales.

Seniors are busy!

Seniors are thoughtful!



THE CLOCK By Wally Hoehl

The clock on the wall
  Ticks constantly all day
No matter what we do
  No matter what we say
We can't keep time from passing gradually away.

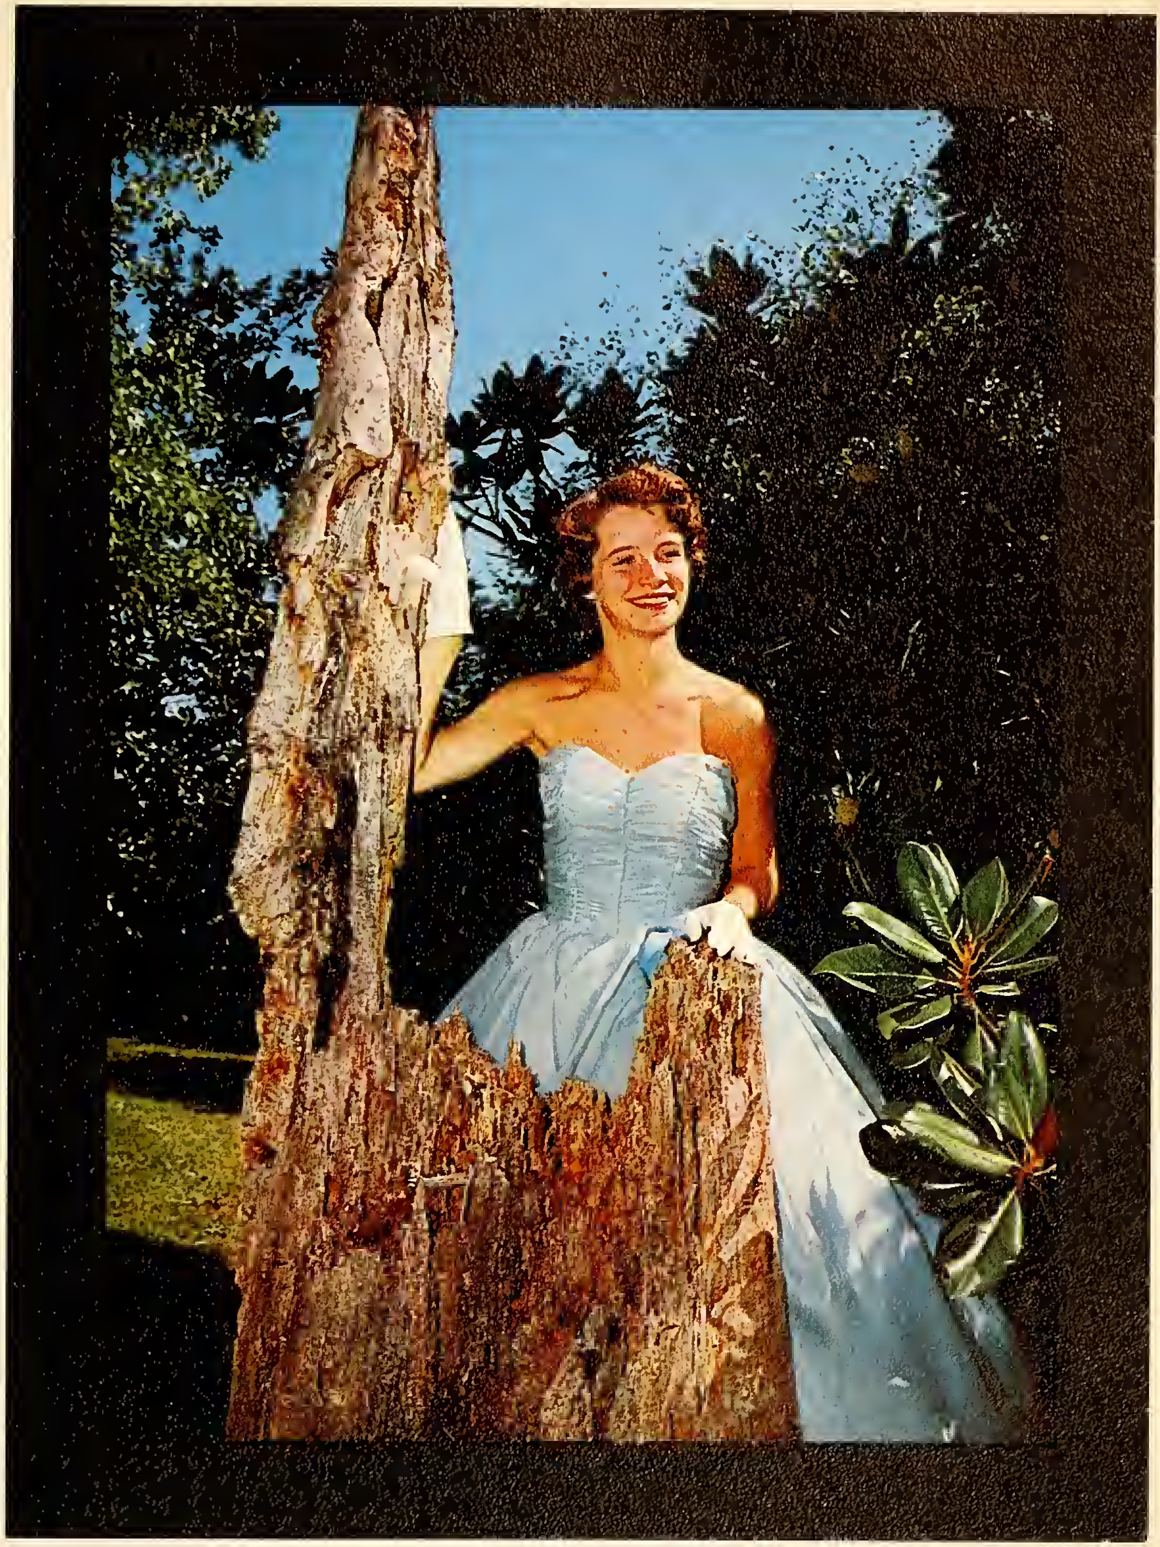
LIFE By Hortense McGehee

We swim.
Yes, we swim.
The shore is there . . . somewhere!
But the current is here, pulling! sucking! Churning! Tugging!
Pulling us aside from our ultimate goal —
  If we let it.

PRIDE By Ann Matthews

His deep blue eyes glanced my way,
  But I did not look.
I love you, I would have liked to say,
  But I did not look.

I stared ahead, my soul bereft,
  My brain pierced by a million darts.
He looked again and sighed and left,
  And sadness filled my heart.



Seniors are special!

And there was one, numbered among the faithful, who rose above the rest. She ascended gracefully and in the light of truth, smiling all the while to pave her way. Far above jealousy, above malice, above revenge did she rise, . . . and we crowned her our queen and set her on a golden throne in our hearts. Nancy Scales, HOMECOMING QUEEN.

Candid Camera Around Morehead-

Will somebody tell us what Mr. Price is thinking while he stands by that door every day!

What'cha looking at G. L.?

Study, Study, Study! In a study hall?

Just like the movies — almost. Joe Sherwood and Larry Kallam are projector men.

That 3:15 rush!

Guess we caught you unaware!

"Aye yi yi!" Carl Grohs finds things extremely crowded at the ice cream store.

"If there's one thing I can't stand, it's burned toast, so watch it!" Terri Martin and Virginia Adkins in Home Economics.

There is no rest for those who labor. Tommy Ogburn and Mike Dineen return from a KP job.

What are we thinking about? Huh, Larry Shively?

Are things really that bad? They must be when Pete Simpson is the only dish on the cafeteria table. Jimmy Burnette refuses to answer and Louis Griffin just laughs.

" 'The time has come', the Walrus said,
'To talk of many things:
Of shoes — and ships — and sealing wax —
of cabbages — and kings —
And why the sea is boiling hot —
And whether pigs have wings.' "

Organizations

We have only to glance into our looking glass to recall the things we did talk of; not cabbages and kings perhaps, but a range of subjects just as varied.

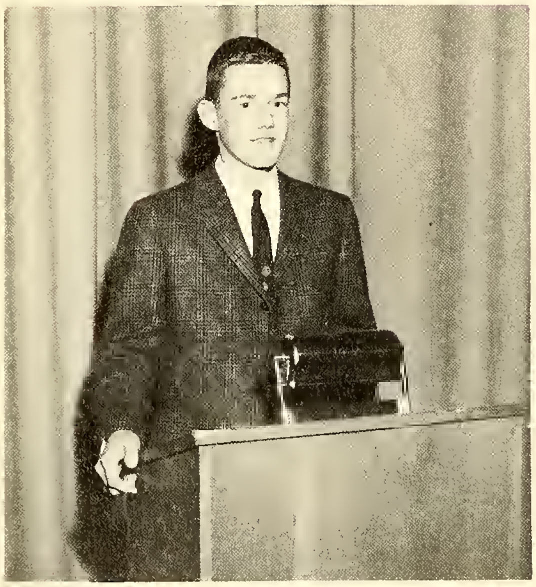
We were eager to talk, for youth has much to discuss, and short is the time when ideas can be accepted purely for themselves. Whenever we congregated, whatever we did, we found time to talk, and in talking, we began to plan.

Our plans grew, and so did our numbers, and many of the ideas became realities. Our organizations evolved of themselves, and in existing they contributed to both the individual and the whole.

The Student Council runs things smoothly.

MR. ODELL NASSAR
Advisor

Is it really all that funny, Mary Anne? Student Council members sell jackets at lunch.



Oooh that smile; Norris Ford, president of the Student Council.

Who's the St. Bernard? A hall monitor studies while on duty at lunch time.

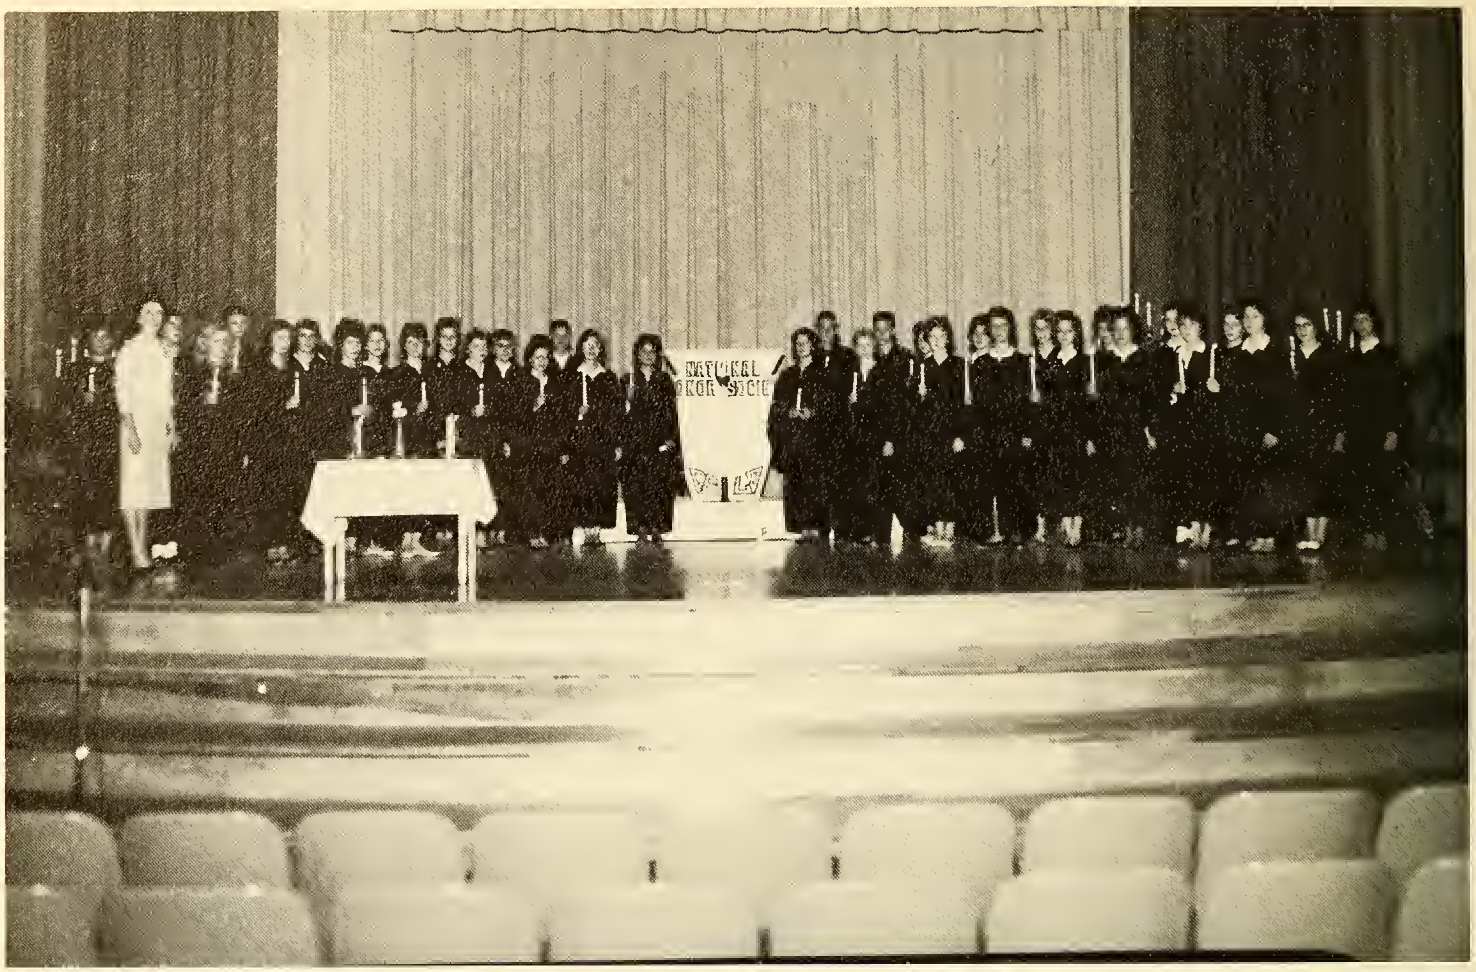
Gail Campbell points a finger, Norris Ford looks sheepish, Jimmy Law laughs, and Lucy Grogan smiles amusedly. What's up?!! Student Council officers.

. . . To tell the truth, the whole truth . . . The president swears in new sophomore officers.

Knees were knocking, and hearts beat fast . . . just before the council members made speeches on school conduct to the student body.

Now get in a straight line you peasants! Jane Tullock and Frank Barron escort students to lunch.

Oh dear, I'm next! Lucy Grogan addresses the students while others listen and wait their turn.



If everyone lit just one little candle . . . they all did, and look what a nice, bright Honor Society we have.

Yellow tassels and good grades rate in the Honor

Who me? Me? ME! Carolyn Shropshire taps Faith Hankins in the annual induction ceremony.

Knights (Ladies) of the Round (Square) Table — National Honor Society officers: Beth Martin, Wally Hoehl, Karen Sapp, Margaret Arnall.

She signs in blood — no, just ink. Jean Johnson affixes her name to the register of the National Honor Society under the watchful eyes of Karen Sapp and Elizabeth Martin.

With finger bent and the ghost of Emily Post pervading the atmosphere, honor roll students attend the National Honor Society tea.

Society

A darkened room, lighted candles, black-robed figures, an air of suspense, . . . can mean only one thing, — the National Honor Society induction ceremony. Annually, in the fall, new members are tapped into the society on the basis of leadership, scholarship, character, and service. The top 10% of the Senior class and the top 5% of the Junior class are eligible. Students are rated by the faculty in order to determine membership.

It's organized confusion. National Honor Society members make plans for their big event — Career Day.

Don't say "ain't" — tain't right. What an English teacher she'll make. Carolyn Shropshire, student assistant to Miss Barker.

The Future Teachers of America

If a nation is to grow, there must be a desire to build, to expand, to learn — that comes from the heart of the people . . . the youth. But they cannot do it unaided, and so there arises a class known as the teachers. To begin molding the character of those who will build our country, is to begin teaching the teachers. The Future Teachers of America are learning.

THE CLARION

Vol. 10, No. 2 JOHN MOTLEY MOREHEAD HIGH SCHOOL October, 1961

Members of the Clarion staff and advisor Doug Compton spend many long hours in the newspaper room compiling articles to be run in each issue of the paper. Freedom of the press was one of America's hardest won rights, and the old tradition of informing the public is carried out at Morehead in the voice of the school — The Clarion.

In spite of the hard work, the mistakes, and the frustrations, when the job is done, there is a certain satisfaction in looking over the finished product. Editor Betty Ivie and her staff, Becky Blackburn, Pam Roberts, Mary Ann Shropshire, and Thelma Swindell seem proud of this edition's accomplishments. Mr. Compton, complete with thermos, couldn't look more pleased if he were reading the New York Times.

The October issue of The Clarion breaks up 7th period classes!

My but they seem awfully pleased. Who wrote the jokes?

Chuckle, chuckle, ha, ha, ho, ho!

File it away for a rainy day! The business staff: Lynda Farabee, Susan Tiller, Dannie Matthews.

Getting out the paper is no small task. It requires teamwork, co-operation, and a spirit of adventure. The staff must be prepared to speak out against injustice (breaking in the lunch line) with scorching editorials (sizzle), to attempt new things (poetry by local beatniks) in spite of ridicule (good night), and to publish the unbiased truth (get a load of the gossip column) without fear (just wait'll they get their hands on you).

"The Aesthetes" prove that literature isn't stuffy!

I don't see any monocles. Is this really the Literary Club?

"The Aesthetes" of J. M. Morehead High School was organized and founded by students who felt the need of expansion in the liberal arts. Members participate voluntarily in creative writing, oral interpretation, selected reading, dramatics, and music appreciation. It provides a healthy exchange of opinions, talents, and ideas.

Com'mon, you're an officer. Tell us what "The Aesthetes" means! Officers: Ann Matthews, Frank Barron, Margaret Arnall, Betty Ivie, John Walker.

The naughtier they are, the better they sell! From the looks of the loot . . .

Lets' play house - with the Future Homemakers.

What, no boys among this feminine pulchritude?

Statistics say that the nation is run by the average housewife, and to be a better than average homemaker is the goal of members of the F.H.A. The cake may fall, and the dress be too small, but it was fun learning, and even more fun in progressing to accomplishment.

Of course I've only put the zipper in three times already. Officers: Ann Soyars, Mary Anne Shropshire, Peggy Lashley, Vicki Hopper.

Mr. Compton, what are you doing in the F.H.A.?! Talking about job possibilities.

Through balmy spring days, and chilly fall evenings in glaring sun,

Sun glinted on the shiny trumpets and trombones and
The smart black and white uniforms stood crisply in a row.
The big bass drum looked bold enough to boom across the park,

While the feather in the drum major's hat swayed jauntily in the breeze.

The little majorettes were poised with knees saucily in the air;

And everyone smiled.

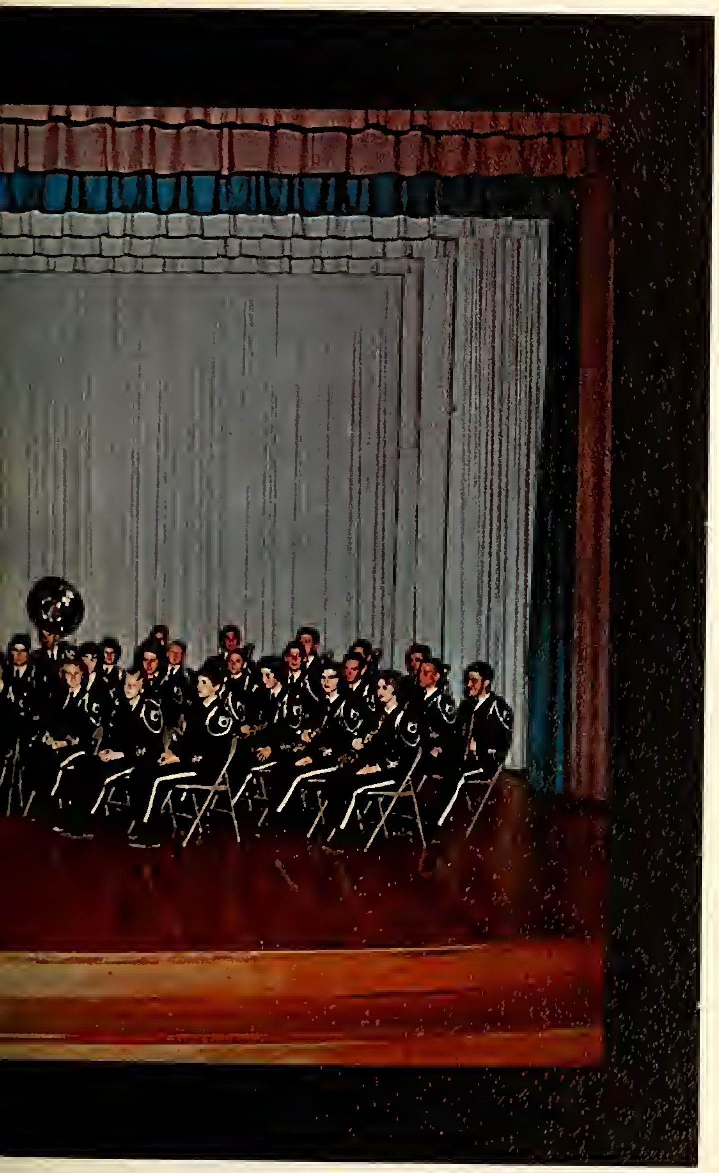
The band was all set to march down the terrace walk,
But the toy soldiers never moved.

and sudden rain, our wonderful, beautiful band plays on and on and on!



The conductor raised his baton.
The band members lifted their instruments.
Down went the baton!
Down went the lips of the players on the cold steel!
And up floated the strains of a waltz.
The piece continued, – flowing, rolling, swelling, diminishing.
The conductor stretched his arms.
Out went the baton;
The last measure rose to a crescendo of sound.
Slowly, down went the baton
While the last few notes hung in the air
And softly died away.

Music motivates many things, among them, fun!

Hey . . . who are the guys in the cute little suits? The J. M. Morehead Marching Band.

The band takes the form of '62 to honor the Homecoming nominees and old grads in the half-time ceremony.

The J. M. Morehead High School Glee Club . . . with voices ever raised in song.

Hours of practice make our wonderful Glee Club what it is.

Those paragons of virtue—the point system—Glee Club Officers: Lucy Grogan, Jimmy Fair, Pat Yount.

Three weeks, we rehearse and rehearse. Two weeks and it couldn't be worse . . .

Man first learned to express himself in words, and he said many beautiful things. But there came a time when words could not satisfy him, and so he reached out for something else — something that would soar up to the esthetical heights he longed for. In happiness, in love, in sorrow, in tragedy, he sought a better medium to express himself. So he turned to music. And that is why a melody somehow seems to float from the sublime portions of the soul.

“The Lion and the Unicorn were fighting for the crown:
The Lion beat the Unicorn all round the town.
Some gave them white bread, some gave the brown:
Some gave them plum-cake and drummed them out of town.

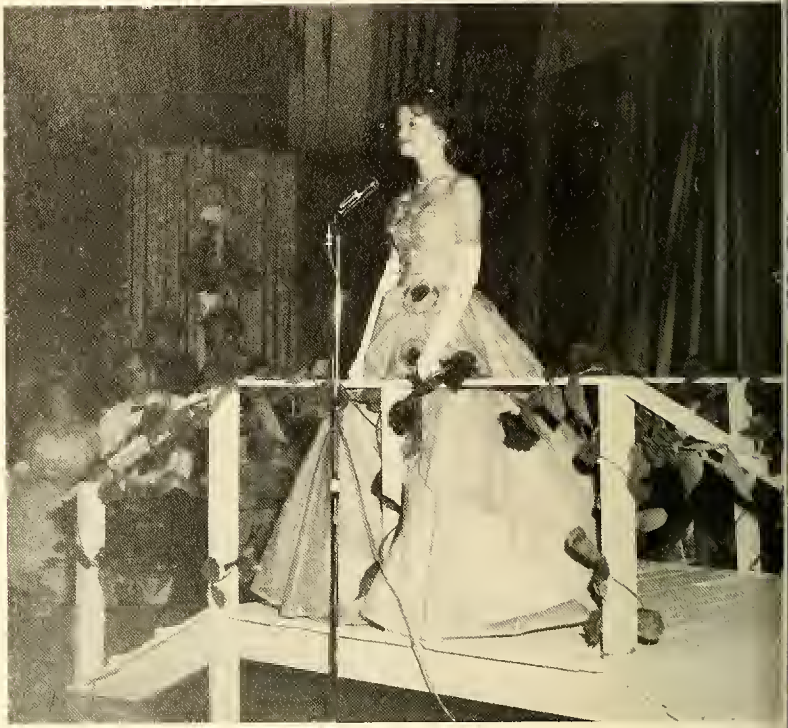
Activities

Here we find the images in our mirror constantly changing, for youth is a busy time, and we had not a moment to spare. Like the Lion and the Unicorn, we scattered ourselves all round the town as our activities took in many phases of school and community life.

We worked and we played, while time sped on with a never-ceasing kaleidoscope of days filled with new events. Yet, now that it is over and we have a moment to catch our breath, we miss the excitement and the purposeful feeling that pervaded the atmosphere. But we shall not forget pungent as cigar smoke on a cold windy day, brilliant as an orange sunset coloring the winter sky, warm as a handclasp by a dying campfire — the memory of our days togther.

That last-minute scramble to get the decorations

"I could have danced all night . . ."



"Friends, Romans, and Countrymen . . ." Nancy Scales served as mistress of ceremonies.

One, Two, Three, Four . . . that's the way Leprechauns polka?

in place only adds to the fun of the Junior-Senior.

"And this is Matildia Glurkenheimer.' How did those people get in the receiving line?!!

"I wonder why—" . . . she's standing there in her socks. Gail Washburn furnished a portion of the entertainment.

Tramp! Tramp! Tramp! The Grand March moves forward in stately procession.

Familiar faces turn up at Homecoming!

Go cat go! Alumni and students combine to "swing it" at the Homecoming dance . . . notably Jane Kirby and Kenny Adkins.

Is that a million dollar smile? The Homecoming queen, Nancy Scales, and her court, Jan Thomas, Brenda Collins, Alice Hunter Sugg, and Lucy Grogan.

With a blare of trumpets and a roll of drums . . . the Homecoming parade got under way at last.

"Yes, Mr. Nassar, I will give her the flowers." Mr. Hough crowns the queen while Norris Ford stands by with a bouquet and Mr. Nassar whispers instructions.

The only candid shot we'll ever get of this character! Guess who?!!

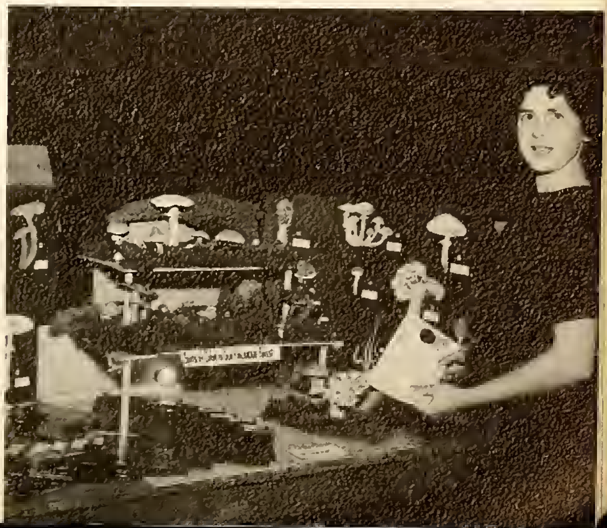
The Science Fair provides a challenge in intellectual achievement

It's a flower . . . we think. Anyway, Katie Howe netted a blue ribbon on it.

The Science Club, under the advisorship of Mr. Morgan, plans and carries on the Science Fair from year to year.

Congratulations! Mr. Newlin shakes the hand of Jeannine Craddock, winner of the 1961 Science Fair.

Quite a show . . . don't you think?



At this rate, she'll turn into a mushroom! Corky Anderson displays a fine project and a blue ribbon.

Open House gives the community a chance to see Morehead.

Wonderland by night—Morehead all lit up.

After a tour of the building, thirsty parents adjourn to the cafeteria where refreshments are served.

The new auditorium glows with beauty.

We are glad they know what they're doing! Carl Newlin and Kim Bowman operate the lighting system in the new auditorium.

Proof of the pudding . . . a fairyland in glitter and shadow.

Watch out or all that horsepower will jump out at you! Gurney Farmer, John Walker, and Richard Watkins check the interior of No. 15.

The Cafeteria workers prepare our lunches.

Can you imagine making enough rolls to serve 600 students?

Mrs. Dunn supervises as her workers prepare dinner for the many students who enjoy the convenience of eating in the cafeteria.

Neatness and efficiency rate high here.

Ed and James are busy with the task of keeping Morehead clean and tidy.

Bertha labors faithfully, keeping our school in shape every day.

"She was getting a little dizzy with so much floating in the air, and was rather glad to find herself walking again in the natural way."

Classes

The faces in the mirror are ever changing; some images lie in shadow, some are seen only in profile, and some reflect a whole expression. The faces may be dull and inanimate, mysterious and secretive, or vibrant and alive. Many things . . . loneliness, intelligence, enthusiasm, complacency, happiness, defiance, hope . . . many things are reflected in the faces. The Seniors all possess a touch of complacency, the Juniors, — a look of enthusiasm, the Sophomores, — an inquisitive air. Varied are the faces, and varied are the fates, and now we see through a glass darkly.

Seniors are . . . older than everyone else . . . big wheels . . . school spirited . . . mischievous . . . in love with love . . . impressed with themselves . . . frantically busy having fun . . . so possessed of everything, and so soon to lose it.

All those EAGER faces – ice cream is a booming business.

Well, they are school-spirited, even if it is cold.

The only word for the lunchtime scramble – CHAOS!

Will he or won't he get his hot little hands on that ball!!

STAIRWAYS

In all of life, there are many stairways:
Proud ones that lead to towering grandeur,
New ones with untried strength that hopefully boasts,
Plain ones with classic design and simple lines,
Old ones, rickety and worn;
And every man must sometime climb one:

Some rush up eagerly, taking two steps at a time,
Some bounce up gaily with springtime in their step,
Some trot up precisely in dignified rhythm,
Some trudge up slowly, bowed down with age and Care.
There is character to be found in stairways,
And the people who ascend them.

Sophomores are . . . victims of the bottom locker . . . lost at the 1st pep rally . . . left out of Junior-Senior plans . . . always there at football games . . . owners of a fresh, young look like no other in the world.

BEAUTY, ALONE AND INCONSTANT

The world has never been
So splendid as it was
Upon that day.
In beauty that no human hand
Could ever forge,
Nature had her way.

The alabaster stillness hung,
Suspended with no movement
Save that of melting snow,
While my lonely footsteps
Taunted me, as if to say
It too will pass, you know.

"To the Looking-Glass world it was Alice that said,
'I've a sceptre in hand, I've a crown on my head.
Let the Looking-Glass creatures, whatever they be Come and dine with the Red Queen, the White Queen, and me!' "

Advertisements

The Looking-Glass world has so graciously invited us to come and enjoy its hospitality. Concurrent with this atmosphere is the one found in the establishments of the businessmen of the Tri-Cities. We sincerely appreciate their aid, and feel that the exchange should be a mutual one. With your help, it will be.

It's been loads of fun knowing you
and being in your classes
these past years. Remember this year's Science Fair? How could you forget! Best wishes always.

Irene Morgan

Dennis, Lots of luck to a "whiz"
in English Lit. Keep up the good work and maybe your great-grand children will read about you someday. Good luck in College

A friend -
Becky Blackburn

Dennis,
Chemistry has really been a blast
this year — hasn't it?
I've enjoyed Mr. Morgan
and his wise cracks!
Best of luck to you in the future!

Dennis,

I have enjoyed being in your Spanish II class this year. I wish you the very best of luck in the future.

A friend,
Donna Burroughs

Dennis,

We've had 3 good years together. Let's remember that.

Good luck.

Frank Barron

Dennis

I have enjoyed being in your Spanish II class this year. We have been pretty lazy in here haven't we. Best of luck always and I hope you don't miss high school too much after graduation.

Beverly Cochran

Dennis

You still haven't been enlightened by the English literature "Molesworth." But you have wrecked a car which is about the same. You do look like Molesworth. Have a Ball.

John Walker

Dear Dennis,

I have had a ~~miserabl~~ wonderful time with you and your twisted little mind this year. Watching your ~~idiots~~ brilliant action in Physics & College Algebra -

Elizabeth Mabe

Purdy:

Sure has been nice knowing you this year. Hope you have lots of luck these coming years. We've had fun in physics together.

Yours Truly
David Holmes

Pray for a good harvest, but keep on hoeing!

Sincerely yours,

Dennis, (the Menace)
You're really living up to you're name.
Best of luck to you anyway, you need it with the kind of jokes you tell.
Your friend,
Scott

Dennis,
It's been fun struggling through algebra with you this yr.
Best Wishes,
Nancy Gardner

Dennis.
We've had a ball in Advanced ???, haven't we.
I just have to Write in the lines.
Be good and best wishes.
Love,
Carolyn

Dennis
It has been fun - from the second grade on! I hope the rest will be just as great! See you this summer.
Regards -
Nancy Scales

Dennis,
We've had a lot good good times together & I hope we will have a lot more. Good Luck.
Frank Barron

Dennis,
I have enjoyed being in your Chemistry class. Boy! we have had a blast. Good Luck to you.
Sincerely, - Gayle Campbell

Dennis,
It has been very Pleasant being in geometry Class with You this Year. I wish the very best Luck to a very nice boy,
Robert Romer

Autographs

Dennis,
It has been fun knowing you through the past years but especially this year. We will have some fond memories after graduation. Let's never forget our struggle through good old Mr. Morgan's classes! Lots of luck in the future!!

Anna Mae Gibson

Dennis: It has really been a pain in the neck knowing you this year in Spanish and English classes; you've [illegible] got a mind of your own. — Best of luck next year at State —
Your friend: Jimmy Whit

Dennis.
It has been nice being in chemistry this year with you. Best of luck always in everything you undertake.

Janet Thomas

Dennis
Well, its like this,
I never know what to put in an annual; but I try. Best of luck in the future and chemistry
Corky Anderson

Dennis,
Boy we've had some hell-raising times our senior year. Especially some of the times at Mr. Bigg's play, Ask Any Girl. Man that was great. I know you are looking forward to the future and I want to wish you the very best of luck.
Your Pal,
"Bond"...

Dennis.
It has been fun knowing you this year. Best of luck in College and the future.

Paul Thompson

Dennis,
It really has been fun knowing such a crazy guy. I can truthfully say that you have a one-track mind! Best of luck to a real fine person

Maggie

Dennis,
It has been a lot of fun in Spanish this year. Best of luck to a nice boy.

Alvin Taylor

Dennis,
It's been fun arguing with you in physics. Really I've enjoyed knowing you this year. Best of luck in the future in the future to a swell guy.

Friend,

To my friend Dennis?

The day has not come, nor has the night. We are still aren't. Time was late arriving and there are no sun dials. No you aren't having trouble with your eyes.

Charles Hubbard

P.S. Watch out for the stobor.

Dennis,

I have enjoyed knowing you this year. Good luck with Spanish. I'm sure you will go a long way in life. Best wishes to a good friend.

Your Pal

Dennis,

It's been nice seeing you around. Remember the trip to Tanglewood Park! Hope to see you soon!

Lots of Luck
Sondra Hall

Dennis,

Its been nice knowing you in Science Club this year. Remember me as a splinter as you slide down the banaster of life.

Jennine Craddock

Dennis

It's been rather "odd" knowing you this year. However it has been fun discussing "Mr Big" world and other problems. Best of luck always."

Marcia

Dennis,
Hope you & your carbon arc go far. Best of luck you dog. I'm glad you're leaving the ice cream store. Best wishes.
Billy Duckett

Dennis,
I've enjoyed being in your geometry class! Lots of luck in the future

Dennis,
It really has been wonderful having someone to gripe about chemistry with on the bus, in the mornings and after school. Literary Club has also been quite an experience for both us, too, hasn't it? Remember the time about half the Literary Club, including me, hummed a ride home with you. By the way, thanks!! My ice cream is melting & the bell is about to ring so I'll have to scratch out. See you (sometime??) I guess.
Kathi Horne

Dennis,
Physics and Advanced Algebra have intrigued me this year. I've really enjoyed them though. May the best of everything be yours for (stutter-stutter pen-stutter) the asking. May God bless you.
Sincerely,
Barbara Frank

Dennis (The Menace),
We've had a good time in Chemistry this year. Keep up the good work and don't you break any thistle tubes (they're expensive).
Lots of luck to a real nice guy.
